

Sample Will Wording

A will is about your life and legacy, and leaves a map of how you want to be remembered. Including a gift to charity in your will is easy and flexible according to your needs.

Gifts by will can be provided in multiple ways:

- a gift of all or a portion of what remains in an estate after all other debts, taxes and expenses, and all other bequests to your beneficiaries (including family and friends) have been fulfilled (residue);
- a cash amount (a bequest); or
- a donation of a specific asset like publicly traded shares (a bequest).

These gifts can be used:

- for use where the hospital applies them to whatever purpose is most needed at the time (unrestricted use), or
- for a specific purpose such as for equipment or for a particular department of the hospital (specific purpose).

The gift can be:

- absolute - a cash bequest, gift of shares or portion of residue that is given no matter what other conditions apply; or
- contingent - the gift applies only if a certain circumstance applies such as a named beneficiary not being alive and the gift to the hospital is the alternate gift.
